Heat Index

If you're receiving this email, there's a good chance that you work in the heat on a daily basis, so you understand the struggles our guys face on a daily basis, especially with the record heat we've been receiving recently.

Our guys work their tails off on a cool day, let alone when we're facing temperatures that our area hasn't seen since the 70s. We appreciate your understanding if install goes a little slower than what you may be used to, as our guys (and those working in the field harvesting sod) may be a little slower than normal given the heat & increased water/rest breaks.
